The Defences of Canada,

On several occasions lately, we have directed attention to the newly inaugurated Imperial policy, as put forth in the parliamentary report on Colonial military expenditure, of making the British Americans supply the money and men for external and internal defence. We then took occasion to show that so long as Great Britain withholds from the Provinces the national right of a voice in making war and peace, and above all a voice in shaping the policy of the nation, it could not be expected that British America would consent to tax itself heavily to provide against any possible invasion from the States. The fall of the late Canadian Ministry, whatever may have been the remote causes, was immediately due to its attempt to expend a very large sum in to the militia of that Province on a more efficient footing; and we may fairly infer that the inauguration of a new Ministry is a positive proof of a disposition among the Canadians to reject the new Imperial policy on military expenditure. We have no notion that the Imperial Government is disposed to press the matter to a grisi; at the same time the the matter to a crisis; at the same time the the influence of the representatives of the Crown will be flet in Provincial politics, di-recting the Colonial mind towards the speedy recting the Colonial mind towards the speedy adoption of the new Imperial policy. But it will prove a hopeless undertaking, so long as the existing relations between the Provinces and Imperial Government are maintained, or as the Provincials continue to occupy so long as the Provincials continue to occupy a subordinate position to their brethren in Great Britain. At a dinner given lately to the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Monck, the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Mones, in Montreal, he took occasion to refer to the defences of Canada, and has, in consequence, been very severely handled by some sections of the Provincial press, and called out a discussion that has been participated in very generally. It is charged against Lord Monek that rally. It is charged against Lord Monek that he has unnecessarily attempted to excite a war-like feeling against the States; and has, moreover, taken a position for which his Ministry is not responsible. Some of the New York papers have concurred in this view, so far as engendering dislike to the States. On the other hand, some of the Canadian papers defend the Governor General, stating that there is danger of an American invasion of Canada, and though the Ministry may not be responsible for his opinions, his bold utterance of the opinions held by the Imperial Government should be accepted as a warning, sufficient to should be accepted as a warning, sufficient to cause the Provinces to anticipate an attack. As the speech of Lord Mouck is regarded as rery important, we make the following extract on military defences:

"This demonstration was not intended as a personal compliment to himself. He accepted it as the evidence of their loyalty to the Sovereign whom he represented. The kindness shown him emboldened him to take the license of a friend, and not officially, to say that everything concerning this noble Province was dear to him. Canada occupies a position not enjoyed by a community of a similar size. They had government of their own, commerce secured without expense. He was bound to say that this condition could no longer exist. The external relation of Canada prohibited it. There is but one quarter that Canada can fear an attack—from the Republic on our borders. Within the past year that nation has been turned into a camp, We heard of these changes with regret, and shall welcome the day when peace shall be restored to that country. But we cannot ignore tae existence of these armies. We need not fear immediate a tack. Ho read an extract showing that if we want to preserve peace with that power we must anticipate a tack, but we should not wait until an attack takes place before preparing. We must be in a state of efficient defence. These are words of the ablest statesman in England, the present Prime Minister of England, under whom he had taken the hardest lessons in politics. The whole resources of the Empire will be put forth to protect Canada. But the colonies form a part of that Empire, its imperial resources. If such necessity arises it will be dealt with in no niggard manner. He could not give an account of what England could do but he could say what she could not do. She could not furnish the men to fight. But such as she can give will be given. He did not wish for a Canadian standing army, but that they should put forth some effort in their own defence. The commercial community should take ordinary precaution of insaring themselves. The moral effect of such insurance would be great.

The Montreal Herald censures the course of the Governor-Genera very important, we make the following extract on military defences:

the Governor General, even though he gave utterance to his opinions unofficially, and quotes the following remarkable comments on his speech from the Courrier de St. Hyacinthe:

his speech from the Courrier de St. Hyacinthe:
Whatever may be the official character of these words, we can say that, repeated elsewhere, they would have upon the fature of our country, and upon our line of conduct as English colonists, a great power and influence. Taking them literally, and according to them the signification which they in reality possess, and we may well believe ourselves delivered from our obligations toward the Metropolitan State. Our allegiance to England is only conditional; the compact made between her and our fathers was a compact mutual tween her and our fathers was a compact mutual and reciprocal. In refusing to perform her part of the conditions, England relieves us from ours. All social treaties rest upon recipaocal fidelity; the first of the contracting parties who becomes unfaithful relieves the other from his portion of duties and obligations. Our condition was achieved by and obligations. Our condition as a colony has for its foundation the protection of England; that foundation being undermined, the whole edifice of the connection must come to the ground. National independence will spring from the ruins of that edifice, destroyed and overturned by England alone. land alone.

The English press continues to discuss the questhe English press continues to discuss the ques-tion of the colonial defences, giving it a particular interest. Its language becomes more and more expressive; it decides upon our affairs with an authority before which we ought to protest (lever la tete); it pronounces upon our future and rules our destinies with a coolness revolting to our national honor.

The Toronto Globe in reviewing the speech takes occasion to express opinions directly opposite to that of Lord Monck. It says:

opposite to that of Lord Monck. It says:

"Let Lord Monck pause before he recommends anything so monstrous. He desires, in common with the entire Canadian people, to preserve British connection. Let him beware lest he brings about the result which he designs to avoid. Let him take care that he does not convince the people of Canada that it is better to become a part of the United States than to live the slaves of a constant dread of invasion, wasting their money and their time, and destroying their prosperity in attempts to make themselves as strong in a military point of view as their neighbors."

On the contravt the Hamilton Scatter On the contrary the Hamilton Spectator says of the above extract:

says of the above extract:

"It is little short of treason to advise inaction at a time like this, and the Globe is doing its utmost to lull the people of this country into a false security. Lord Monck has done well to sound the note of warning, and loyal men must see to it that the warning is heeded. The time has come when the people must prepare for action, for there is no telling how soon danger may be precipitated.

CRICKET MATCH -A Cricket Match, be tween twenty-two citizens and naval officers, will take place at Beacon Hill on Saturday next, at ten o'clock, a.m.

The Dinner to the Hon. M. Cameron. It is not often that the inhabitants of Vic toria enjoy so rare a treat as it was the good fortune of those who attended the compli mentary dinner given on Wednesday evening to the Hon. Malcolm Cameron. Sucl events are like angels' visits-few and far between. It must have been gratifying to all who participated in the festivities of the evening to observe the perfect unanimity which prevailed in doing honor to our distinguished visitor. No one there could deny but that whatever efforts have been made on the part of our citizens to do justice to the occasion, they were superabundantly rewarded by the enjoyment every one must have experienced at the varied and exten-sive information imparted to them on many points of vital importance to the interests of the whole community. the visit of the honorable gentleman—the guest of the evening—the commencement of our emancipation from the complete isola-tion in which we have since our origin existed with regard to the outer-world. It must be apparent to every one who gives the subject the slightest attention, that the dawn of inter-colonial intercourse is about to unfold itself to us over a path of which we have so long desired the inauguration and completion. The honorable gentleman remarked that he expected to revisit us within three years by means of steamboats and stage coaches on the overland road to British Columbia. We shall be happy to receive as visitors and take pleasure in visiting our Colonial neighbors of the Eastern Provinces; and the day is not far distant when we shall have not only visitors but a complete chain of settlements from the Atlantic to the Pacific sca-board, all within British North America, linked together by the strong bonds of interest and brotherhood. Every one must have felt gratified at the extremely hopeful light in which Mr. Cameron depicted our future pros-perity. Coming from a man of his stamp—of his acknowledged ability—of his extensive information and varied experience; from one who was born in a Colony and has seen and watched its progress from a stripling into one of the most thriving and important colonies of the British Crown—such views are entitled to the greatest reliance. In conclusion, this Colony may well congratulate herself that she is beginning to attract so great a degree of attention abroad; that the enlightened views entertained by the leading statesmen of Canada on all matters concerning the well-being and progress of the British American possessions, has directed their attention towards the great advantages to be derived from a closer connection with a country affording such vast facilities for controlling the trade of Eastern Asia as ours, does. And let us hope that the ideas unfolded and canvassed by Mr. Cameron the other evening at the banquet, may not fall on barren ground.

A Word or two about the Bentinck Arm Route "-Facts are Stub-born Things."

British Coulc' "- Fricts are Stubbborn Things."

Editor British Colonist—Sir: We have lately been entertained by a very long account signed "Viator," dictated, no doubt, by the well known philanthropic and liberal spirit which so highly characterizes the writer, condenning in a very sweeping manner the proposed road (over which he never raveled,) from the North Bentinek Arm to the northern mines. We have since had a public meeting, calling upon us to support the Bute Inlet Route, "the last appeal."

It is not my intention to enter into any discussion as to which is now, or may become the most available of the proposed Coast Routes. Each has its advocates and supporters. But as the conviction is daily gaining ground that one or the other of them will ere long command the traffic from this port in preference to the Fraser River routes, (whether old or new,) I deem it my duty to the public to request you to give insertion in your paper to a few lines extracted from a letter received on the 25th inst. by Mr. Spence, of this city, from his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Hood, who is now engaged in making the road from the North Bentinek Arm to the Fraser.

August 2d, 1862.

"We are now at the head of navigations and engaged in making the road from the North Bentinek Arm to the Fraser.

August 2d, 1862.

"We are now at the head of navigation, and start to morrow. I have bought Mr. Young's goods. I sent a letter by him to you, in which I stated that I had full faith in the successful issue of the enterprise. I leave Mr. Wilson here with part of the goods at the Depot. Please send word to Mr. Geo. Shaw, at Lillooct, to start with the horses, and I will meet him at Alexandria, or the mouth of the Quesnelle; I have a load of goods for him here. Tell Mr. Green I have little convenience here for writing but that Lieut. Palmer and staff have passed the Silde, and left their horses with me until I get the road cut. I am to meet them when I get through. Lieut. Palmer is satisfied that the road is practicable, only it wants straightening out, and some pertions of it put on more passable ground, which can easily be done."

Mr. Wilson, above referred to, writes to Mr. Spence to address his letters to Alexandria, to the care of his friend Mr. Barron, who left here on the Labouchere, and carried Mr. Hood's goods through to the Fraser.

Not possessing the panoranie powers of description of Mr. Waddington, and still less (God forbid!) the pantomimic powers of "Viator," I am compelled to confine myself to the above few plain, matter of-fact remarks. My object is to let the public know what is being done, so that they may judge for themselves. I consider it also a duty to Mr. Hood, who is absent, actively employed in the construction of the Bentinek Arm Trail.

In conclusion, I have only to say, that I would recommend the public to look very carefully before they leap into Bute Inlet.

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,

SPECTATOR.

Later from the Northwest Coast-More

The Hudson Bay Company's steamer Labourchere arived from the Northwest Coast of British Columbia yesterday, by way of Naniamo and Fort Rupert. H. M. S. Devastation sailed from Fort Rupert on Monday week, for a cruise on the coast, and probably to scarch for and punish the Indians guilty of the late the Mayor, took the chair, supported by John outrages on whites.

Capt. Swanson confirms the report of the opening of the Coast Route from the head of Bentinck Arm, and says that all the animals have started with packs for Cariboo HORRIBLE BUTCHERY OF TWO WHITE MEN.

The sloop Perfoct Cure, Capt. Robinson, also arrived yesterday afternoon from the Northwest Coast with several returning Stickeen adventurers.

Capt. Robinson furnishes us with the account of the finding of the bodies of two white men about a fortnight since on the southerly end of Princess Royal Island, which is about 50 miles above Milbank Sound. He says that his vessel was in company with three canoes, the crew from one of which went ashore on the island in search of water, and, on stepping ashore, one of the parties discovered human head, covered with blood, lying on the beach. The face was that of a man about 25 years of age. A short distance from the beach the party discovered the headless body of a man, to which the head had doubtless belonged. The body, partially naked, lay on a blanket, and was horribly nutilated. One of the feet of the corpse was covered with a boot. The other boot had evidently been stolen. The party, not knowing how many lurking foes might be concealed in the bushes, prepared to leave the island, when another body was discovered lying a short distance off. This body was also partially naked, and had been gashed across the stomach so that the bowels protruded. The head and throat, however, were untured in the party then returned impediate. touched. The party then returned immediately to their boat and shoved off, preferring to suffer thirst than to remain for any length of time in close proximity to the ghastly re-mains or the red-skinned murderers. The bodies gave no evidence of decomposition, and the opinion of those who saw them is that the murders had not been perpetrated more than twenty-four fluours previous to the discovery. No Indians nor canoes were seen anywhere about, and the Perfect Cure, in company with One of the passengers by the Perfect Cure is Patrick Morgan. He was one of a party of twelve men in two canoes who were robbed of everything they possessed and one of their canoes, and fired on by Chimsean Indians, 50 miles south of Fort Simpson. The savages, headed by their chief, professed to be very friendly on the evening before the outrage, but at dawn the next morning took possession of the canoes by pointing loaded muskets at the head of Morgan, who was the only man aboard at the time (the remaining 11 having camped ashore). After robbing both canoes of every article of value which they contained, the canoe occupied by Morgan was cut adrift, and he managed to reach the shore and awaken his companions, upon whom a perfect shower of bullets was fired by Indians concealed in the bushes. They succeeded in reaching the canoe in safety, and pushed off, and four days cance in safety, and pushed oil, and four days after the outrage were picked up by the schooner Black Hawk, and taken to Fort Simpson, where they received every attention.

The Black Hawk subsequently brought them to Nanaimo. Morgan says that himself and companions are greatly indebted to Capt. Hewitt, of the Black Hawk, and to Daysing the Captible and Hawk, Black to Reginald Carwithin and Henry Blakesly, two of the passengers, and to the Hudson Bay Company's officers at Simpson, who denied themselves comforts and supplied the every want of the sufferers. At Fort Simp-son Morgan told his story to the captain of the Devastation, and described the place at which the robbery was perpetrated. Capt. Pike promised to search for the guilty parties. A statement of the facts of the case, we learn, will also be laid before His Excellency

FIRING INTO THE "PERFECT CURE."

On Friday last, on passing near Eucatahs Rapids, below Fort Rupert, when 30 or 40 feet from the shore of this island, an Indian, having a red shirt on, fired a musket or rifle at the captain of the Perfect Cure, who was taking in his sail at the time. The ball struck the side of the sloop, where it buried itself and is still to be seen. Some 50 other Indians were on the beach and witnessed MELTING WEATHER .- The past two days have been perfect scorchers. Old Sol, undisturbed by the stiff southwesterly breezes which usually render our long summer days pleasant and agreeable, has relentlessly poured down his rays and scorched, parched or melted everything and everybody in this portion of the terrestrial globe that has ventured within range of his focus. Hamlet, when he says, "Oh, that this too solid flesh would melt," should have lived in Victoria during yesterday and day before and he would have been run down to a grease-spot in a very short space of time. Sidney Smith's idea of taking off one's flesh and sitting in the skeleton, is sensible, and if it were only possible to carry into practice, would recommend itself to general adoption; but as there is no sense in complaining of what cannot be helped or might be worse, we must make up our minds to grin and per-spire like philosophers until the cooling autumnal breezes bring us relief.

ARRIVAL FROM THE SANDWICH ISLANDS .-The barkentine Jenny Ford, Capt. McCarthy, arrived last night, in 24 days from Honolulu, S. I., with a full cargo of merchandise, principally Island produce. The steamer Thames, 214 days from London, arrived at Honolulu July 17; passengers and crew all well; discharged cargo and sailed for this port August 2d, and was passed by the Jenny Ford (that left Honolulu one day subsequent to the Thames) when three days out. The American Thames) when three days out. The American schooner Eliza Ann had arrived at the Islands schooner Eleza Ann had arrived at the Islands, and reports being boarded by savages off the coast of Patagonia, and the mate and one scamen killed, and the captain wounded severely with a spear. She finally escaped from the clutches of the savages, and received assistance at a Chillean port. The Lahainaluna seminary was destroyed by fire July 26th.

Hon. Malcolm Cameron will proeced to New Westminster by the Enterprise this morning.

Dinner to the Hon, Malcolm Cameron. On Wenesday evening the dinner to the Hon. Malcolm Cameron, given by our citizens, came off at the Colonial Hotel. Some sixty gentlemen sat down. Among them were Chief Justice Cameron, Attorney General Cary, Provincial Secretary Young, Hon. A. Watson, Treasurer; Surveyor General Pemberton; Dr. Helmcken, Speaker of the Assembly; Messrs. Southgate, Franklin, Ring, Trimble, Burnaby, M. P. Ps, besides a considerable number of our most prominent citizens. His Worship, Copland, Esq., and G. M. Sproat, Esq., as Vice Presidents.

After the delicacies under which the table groaned were duly discussed, the following toasts were given: THE QEEEN.

"The House or Assembly;" responded to by the Speaker, Dr. Helmeken.

Mr. Sproat then in a handsome, pertinent speech, gave—

"Success to the Overland Route, coupled with the name of the Hon. Malcolm Cameron," which was drank with the greatest enthusiasm.

Hon. Mr. Cameron then rose and delivered a very able speech which was frequently applauded. We regret that we are unable to give it at length. He expressed the warmest interest in the overland route; predicted that within three years, communication in stages and steamboats would be opened between Canada and British Columbia. ed between Canada and British Columbia : candian and Home Governments, and felt glad that the people here were enlisted in its favor. He also alluded to the great future before this and the neighboring colony, both commercially and industrially; and we shight placed with the constitution. and was highly pleased with the capacity of this Island to grow agricultural products. He was enamoured with our Free-Port system, believing that the imposition of a tariff would be suicidal. He indulged in many other excellent observations, and when he sat down was greeted with vociferous applause.

The next toasts were: "THE BENCH;" responded to by Chief Justice Cameron. "THE BAR;" responded to by Attorney

the others, sailed from the vicinity the nextday. The canoe in which are the party that saw the bodies, is hourly expected to arrive from Nanaimo, when a full and correct account will be Franklin. Quite a number of other toasts were given wany songs were sung; and the conviviali-tics were kept up till about half-past two, when the guest of the evening retired, and the gentlemen present dispersed in the utmost harmony.

THE ASSAULT ON WM. COPPERNAN.-Yesterday the Hydah Indian who broke the head of Wm. Copperman with a brickbat on Sunday last, was tried for assault in the Police Court the complaining witness having recovered sufficiently to appear and give evidence. Mr. Bishop appeared for the prosecution. The evidence taken went to show that the prisoner and a squaw-both drunk-were in Copperman's yard, on Sunday last, making a noise; Copperman ordered the prisoner to leave the premises, and pushed him; the prisoner struck complainant with his fist, whereupon the latter seized a stick and beat the Indian until the blood flowed from his head. Having finished the castigation, he turned and walked into his house, and was on the point of closing the door, when the Indian, smarting from the injuries which he had sustained, and maddened by the combined effects of drink and rage, hurled the mischievous brickbat which struck Mr. Copperman on the kend, and stretched him senseless on the floor. The prisoner then rushed into the house and kicked the prostrate man, and Copperman, partially regaining his senses, seized a hatchet, when his assailand retired. It was also shown in the evidence that Indians resided in a cottage at the rear of Copperman's store, and that the prisoner was visiting them when the affair occurred, and therefore had a slight show of right to be on the premises. Dr. Bell testified to the injury inflicted on Copperman, which, although severe, was not dangerous. One of the witnesses (a white man) thought from what he saw, that each combatant was to blame, and the magistrate seemed to think so too, as he fined the Indian £5 and Copperman £ 1: remarking that while the native had no right to misbehave himself while on complainant's premises, the latter should have called a policein and had him ejected, instead of under-

MOUTH OF STICKEEN RIVER .- Through infornotion derived from parties recently from Stickeen River, we learn that only schooners of light draft can cross the bar of the river at present, although when the channel is surveyed and marked out, it is possible that vessels drawing twelve feet of water can enter. Point Highfield, where the Stickeen village is located. is the place where sea-going craft lie off and discharge. The distance from this point to where the steamer Flying Dutchman received her freight is about five miles, and shippers had to employ such craft as may be about to convey their goods that distance, at an expense of from five to ten dollars a ton, according to the consciences of the skippers employed. At the mouth of the river rain falls nearly all the time, and good camping places are scarce.

MANUFACTURE OF RIFLED CANNON IN CANADA. - From the London (Canada West) Prototype we learn that the recent experiments with the rifled cannon manufactured at the Toronto rolling mills were quite successful. The trial took place before the officers of the Royal Artillery stationed at that place. The target, which was constructed of railroad iron to the depth of four and a half inches, laid upon a bed of oak of thirteen inches in thickness and fastened by nails and bolts, was pierced at the range of 360 yards. The shot penetrated both the iron and wood. CAUSE OF LONG PASSAGE-The long passage of the steamer Thames from London to Honolulu, was attributable to the machinery being out of order. She was 214 days in reaching the Islands, and sailed again on the 2d inst. for this pert. She is fully duc.

THANKS-To Capt. McCarthy of the barkentine Jenny Ford for files of late Honolulu

THE THEATRE. - The "Orphan of Geneva, a thrilling drama in three acts, was performed last evening, with Miss Sweet as the heroine The acting in this piece throughout was excellent, all the characters being well represented' and especially those assumed by Messrs, Beatty, Potter, Thayer, and Cranshaw. Miss Lulu's favorite buliad was encored. The performance concluded with the laughuble farce of the "Lottery Ticket," wherein Mr. Wood, in his favorite role of Wormwood, kept the audience in a roar of laughter from beginning to end. The characters of Susan and Mrs. Corset were well sustained by Misses Dean and Howard, and Mr. Cranshaw's Charles was very well done. To-night a fine bill will be offered.

CODFISH, COPPER AND INDIANS. - Capt Melvin, of the schooner Elizabeth, reports finding extensive codfishing banks off Keyfaux, on the Northwest coast of British Columbia. The captain also brought down some splendid specimens of pure copper which he found on Queen Charlotte's Island The Indians were generally very trouble-some — eternally requiring presents, and, if refused, they took possession of the vessel until their demands were gratified. On one occasion they cut the rigging and sails of the Elizabeth to pieces.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY .- A burglar entered a house in Fort street, last evening, in the absence of its occupant, a female, and was engaged in ransacking boxes and drawers when the occupant returned in company with a male friend, whereupon the thick made a rush out of the house overturning in his flight both the lady and her attendant, and escaping without being recognized. Nothing of value was stolen.

BUTE INLET STOCK .- We observe with pleasure that the number of new shares taken up yesterday in the Bute Inlet Road Company was 125. If such confidence continues, the proposed expedition will soon be able to start. It is much to be desired that this route should be opened so that returning miners may be able to pass over it before next winter.

A BULL IN A MATTRASS STORE .- Yesterday a bull broke from a herd of cattle, as they were being driven up Yates street, and walked through Keyser's mattrass store into the back room, where were seated two females, whom he nearly frightened into fits. The animal was driven out of the house without effecting any damage, and was shortly afterwards driven away with the remainder of the band.

ARRESTED FOR SWIMMING IN THE HAR-BOR .- Officer Shapard, at 12 o'clock last night, hearing a splash in the water at Little's wharf, ran to the spot and discovered a man overboard. He threw him a rope, which he seized, and after landing him safely, took him to the station-house on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct in swimming at an unseemly hour of the night.

IN AT ESQUIMALT .- A large ship, said to be the Australian vessel Seaman's Bride. with 190 passengers, was reported in at Esquimalt last night.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST :- In this even-Entron British Colonist:—In this evening's Press I notice another effusion from "Tax-payer." He says, "I am wholly ignorant of the practical duties of a fire company member." Then, before the gentleman complains of "foreigners," methinks he would act the better part by joining some company and becoming an active fireman. I therefore cordially extend an invitation to him to immediately enroll himself among him to immediately enroll himself among those whose aim is the public good.

over he fancied he saw a hand before him-move, but he could sot evade it.

The thought struck him that it might be his own hand benumbed. To assure himself, he raised both his hands and gazed at them steadfastly, looked at the other hand countries and then sean again at his own. There eagerly, and then again at his own. There were three hands there, indubitably. Still he thought there was some horrible delusion he thought there was some horrible delusion about it. He opened his hands, then closed them, then struck out with them. The other hand was fixed and immovable, but there was no other man to fit the hand. At last, when worked into a state bordering on terror, he wildly snatched at the frightful vision—and awoke with a dead man's hand classed tightly in his own. Cooper had vision—and awoke with a dead man's nand clasped tightly in his own. Cooper had sunk to sleep upon a trench filled with dead Robels. The heavy rains had washed away the loose soil, and the ghastly hand and forearm of a Rebel protruded from the shallow grave.

THE SCARCITY OF CURRENCY.— The New York Herald says: "The scarcity of currency is generally remarked. The conversions of the Sub-Treasury have ceased almost altogether from the simple reason that the legal tender notes are not to be had. The wants of the Government and the requirements of business have scattered them over the country, leaving so low of them here at the financial centre, that it would be a matter of great difficulty to collect a hundred thousand dollars." This doesn't look as if the additional issue of seems to be, under the circumstances, a ne-

PERMANENCE OF THE NEGRO RACE.-There pears to doom all savage races to extermina-tion as civilization colonizes their lands, or in any way comes in contact with them. The negroes alone—those found in Central Africa more especially—when brought into contact with Europeaus. Their barbarism, or semiby side with our civilization, even under the most unfavorable circumstances, without suffering from the contrast. Yet they are by no means the finest race of savages cither intellectually or morally. In these respects, both the Mohicaus and the Maories were far ahead of them. Individuals among them have shown of them. Individuals among them have shown extraordinary capacity of all kinds; but the mass of them are unquestionably barbarians and barbarians of a low type. Yet their vitality is marvellous. Nothing seems to beat them down. They are at least as prolific as the whites. They live at least as long. Their physical strength, and their pliability of temper and constitution, are analogous and nearly equal to those of Europeans. In their own country, they floarish under every sort of bru-tal and cruel rule. When transported to the New World, even under the terrible disadvantages of slavery, they thrive and multiply in spite of almost any treatment. Cuba, where there are scarcely any women, and Hayti, where there has been little but anarchy, offer perhaps the only exceptions. There is evidently no extinction to fear for them. Yet their progress in real civilization seems slow and superficial, as far as we are yet able to judge. What it may be under more favorable and more righteous circumstances, remains to be seen. The extent to which mains to be seen. The extent to which they can advantageously amalgamate with Europeans, and the relations under which they can live among them, are problems yet unsolved. We entirely concur in Mr. Merivale's conclusion, that aboriginal and savage tribes can only be reclaimed and preserved—if either process be possible—by amalgamation; that is, by blending with and amalgamation; that is, by blending with and living among the civilized races who have colonized or subdued their land—not as equals (except in the eye of morality and law,) but in some carefully guarded relation of pupilage, of master and servant, dictated by and arising out of the actual fact of their inferiority, whither that inferiority be temperature, represents the result of warmer. porary or permanent, the result of organiza-tion or merely of antecedent circumstances. Juxtaposition, without amalgamation, must be fatal to the inferior race. This apparently decreed externmation of the old native races of new countries is sad enough, and often sinful enough too, in the process; but is it a matter for grief as to the result? Are not the purposes of the Creator best carried out and the destricts of humantum met their fulfilled, by peopling the world with its nobler and its stronger races, rather than with the feebler and less capable? Is there any real property in a continent or in a vast island vested in the original inhabitants. which should make us feel as if an injustice had been committed when they are superseded by higher intelligences and more seded by higher intelligences and more vigorous organizations, provided no inequitable or unkind acts have hastened or accompanied the process? Can any section, any family, any class or race of man, be entitled to wan off the rest from a territory which he does not cultivate nor use, nor need, on the plea that it is bounded by a certain sea, or river, or range of mountains, and that all within those limits belongs to him? Can any one think, for example, that Australia "belonged" to the wretched Papuan savage, or that it would have been better, juster, or that it would have been better, juster, more righteous, or more desirable in any sense, that it should have been left to be peopled by his decendants than by ours? Two hundred years hence, will not the world present to its Maker a more welcome appect, when inhabited by humanity in its aspect when inhabited by humanity in its loftiest, rather than in its lowest forms? All lottlest, rather than in its lowest forms? All that we need care for is that, in all our intercourse with feebler and poorer races, we scrupulously "do justly and love mercy," and then leave God's laws to operate as He designed, and to work out the results which He foresaw,—North British Review.

OUR COUNTRY CALLS: "To ARMS! To ARMS!"—The recent rumor, that California would be called upon to draft for the quota of the 300,000 recruits now wanted in the Federal Army has caused a great rush for the statutes. Lawyers are button-holed on the streets; editors are bored in their sanctums by men eager to know whether their names must go into the fatal box. We have given the subject much thought, and give our readers the benefit of our reflection. Victoria, August 27, 1862.

The Bloody Hand.—After the battle of Fair Oaks, the 42d New York Volunteers was among the regiments sent to protect the rear. The service was severe, for in addition to wearisome labor in bridge building, the men were compelled to stand guard in the rain and mud. After several days and nights spent in the performance of this duty, the 42d was relieved and sent to the front for rest. Of Lieutenant Cooper, of the 42d, the following singular in—every moment that their private interests risome lator in bridge building, the men were compelled to stand guard in the rain and mud. After several days and nights spent in the performance of this duty, the 42d was relieved and sent to the front for rest. Of Lieutenant Cooper, of the 42d, the following singular incident is related:

The men were so weary that sleeping in the mire was no hardship. He atretched himself recklessly and slept heavily. He supposed it was about sunrise when he was partially awakened. He was neither asleep nor awake, but in that delightfully drowsy condition, when the mind confused is apt to multiply by twelve, and lose its reckoning. Endeavoring to turn over he faucied he saw a hand before him have caught their enthusiasm and enlisted over he hanced he saw a hand before him— apectrelike, he thought, growing red by slow degrees. It seemed to him wan, and pale, and bloodless. The palm was open towards him, and the fingers were spread out stiffly, like a fan. He gazed at it enruestly, reasoning in obscurity with the feebleness of somnolency that it must be a hideous dream. It did not the law does exempt for strabismus or gout, neuralgia, or a cough; what if it does limit the ages between 19 and 45—they will not claim exemption, not they. They would scorn to plead the statute of limitations in a debt to their country, as they would in a debt to their eneighbor. Office-seeking will be abandoned; official positions resigned; others may go to the Legislature, or sit in public places in the Mint, the Custom House, the Post Office and the City Hall, but their country calls, and they will insist on the draft being made from their number. Heretofore the rush has kept them back; now there's a chance. They have not been Presidents, Vice Presidents, Committee men and Orators Vice Presidents, Committee men and Orators in the great Union meetings for nothing. They will insist upon a preference. So, keep cool, you mechanics and laborers, who havn't said much about your patriotism. You must give these men a chance. They haven't been in the army yet.—S. F. Call. MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

Throat Affections.—From Rev. E. Rowley, A. M., President Athens College, Athens, Tenn.—"I have found great benefit from the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches," before and after preaching, as they prevent hoarseness, to which I am very subject. I think from their past effect they will be of permanent advantage to me. Several glergymen of my acquaintance to whom I have given the Troches have been benefitted by them."

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—The treatment pursued by Professor Holloway for the cure of wounds and ulcers is the most simple and certain in its effects, it has been tried by hundreds of thousands, and never been known to fail; by the administration of an internal remedy (the Pills,) he drives disease out, and by the administration of an external remedy (the Ointment,) he heals wounds, ulcers, and the worst of external disorders. By this celebrated treatment, also, bad legs, and ulcers, are cured, even when they have been upwards of twenty years standing.

Its mild alterative properties render it peculiarly applicable to the sheader and delicate constitution of the female. It is unricalled in its effect upon such diseases as Incipient Consumption, Barrenness, Leucorhea or Whites, breegher Menstruation. Incontinues of Urine, and General Prostration of the System.

It immediately counteracts that distressing Nervousness and Lassitude so common to the female frame and imparis an energy and buoyancy as survising as they are gradeful. Headaches, Bile, Loss of Appetite, and Lowness of Spirits.

These Pills require no interruption of business or pleasure; they act mildly on the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and promote a healthy action of the liver, whereby they parily the blood, cleanse the skin, brace the nerves, and invigorate the while system. They effect a truly wonderful change in deblitated constitutions, as they create a healthy appetite, erroret indigestion, remove bile, gildiness, head aches, and pulpitation of the heart.

Weakness and Debility.

Weakness and Debility.

Weakness and DebHuy.

In cases of debility, languor, and nervousness generated by excess of any kind, whether mental or physical, the effect of taese Pills is in the highest degree bracing, renovating and restorative. They drive from the system the morbid cause of disease; restablish the digestion, regulate all the secretions, brace the nervous system, raise the patient's spirits, and bring back the frame to its pristine health and vigor. They increase the appetite, while they secure perfect digestion to all ordinary food, and release the invalid from restraint in diet.

Crughs, Colds, and Asthmas, No medicine will cure colds so quickly as these ills, when of long duration or settled on the chest, r even though it has assumed the first stage of asth in, they may be relied on as a certain and never alling cure, particularly if the Olthinear be well rub-

Blood to the Mead-Diseases of the Heart. More persons die såddenly from discases of the heart, than the unlearned suppose: in such complaints, the bowels should always be kept well open as also where there is a tendency of blood to the head. These celebrated Pills purify the blood in ac extraordinary manner, and should be taken in explous doses when such symptoms occur, taking cars not to overload the stomach; by this means all danger is quickly averted.

Children's Complaints

Children's Complaints.

It is not generally known, but such is the fact, that children require medicine oftener than their parents. Three-fourths of the children die before they attain the age of eight years. Let mothers, then, be wise, and give to their children small doses of these invaluable Pills once or twice every week, it such quantity as may act gently upon the system twice in the twenty-four-hours. For Infants, a Pill may be crushed and giver as a powder in a little water. The gross humors that are constantly floating about in the blood of children, the forertuners of so many companies, will thus be expelled, and the lives of thousands saved and preserved to their parents.

Mental Debility, Hysteries, etc., and is so wonderful in rejuvenating premature old age, and correcting decrepitude brought on by excessive indulgence, that nothing but a Frial can convince the patient of its qualities. It is not an excitant but a strengthener, purely vegetable and harmiess; like a skillful architect begins by laying a firm foundation, and gradually but incessantly adds strength and vigor until nothing is left unfinished.
